What Does It Mean to be Honorable?

Many of you carry the label “The Honorable.” What does the New Testament (NT) and the book of Proverbs have to say regarding that label? In a biblical sense, have you ever thought about what the Bible identifies as the characteristics of an honorable person?

The root word in Hebrew for honor is kabad, meaning “heavy” or “weight.” The form of this word that appears throughout the Old Testament (OT) book of Proverbs is kabod, meaning “abundance, glory, dignity, or high position.” In Psalm 8:5 the word is used in concert with the fact that God has crowned man with dignity (kabod) and splendor as it relates to man’s being created in His image and given rule over His creation.

Taking our cue from God in Psalm 8:5, it follows that we should give honor to whom honor is due. To do so is to be God-like, or godly, or Christlike. Let’s take a good look at this biblical concept and develop some new convictions.

Read on.

INTRODUCTION

Honor is “dignity and respect ascribed to man or God.” Honor (kabod) is exhibited in different ways throughout the OT; each of the following instances provides a sense of understanding of this character quality. First, in the OT, honor was exhibited in the form of external splendor such as material possessions (cf. 1 Chronicles 29:12, 28; 2 Chronicles 1:11–12; Esther 5:11; Proverbs 3:16). This is honor that is visibly expressed materially, as is evidenced in our culture when we give a gift to someone. Another kind of honor in the OT was the ceremony accompanying a military success. Still another sense of honor was the respect afforded to one of high position (e.g., Joseph: Genesis 45:13; Job 19:9) as royal stewards. In this regard, we appropriately label our political leaders “The Honorable.” Last in our introductory notation is the heavenly honor that awaits the faithful as ascribed in Psalm 73:24:

With Your counsel You will guide me, and afterward receive me to glory.

Let us thoroughly study honor from Proverbs and the NT. This study organizes biblical attributions to honor into three main categories. First, giving honor to the Lord will be contrasted with the sin of craving honor selfishly. The second classification pivots around the idea of receiving honor—how we receive it from the Lord and how we best receive it from others. Finally, in our attempt to better understand what all the Bible teaches us about honor, the student of the Bible can organize the idea of giving honor (in addition to the first point of giving honor to the Lord) into three additional categories: to others, fools, and institutional leaders. The Bible has much to say about each of these!

I. GIVING HONOR TO THE LORD

What does the Bible say are the ways we best give honor to the Lord? In no particular order of importance, from the OT they are as follows.

A. THROUGH GIVING

Honor the LORD from your wealth and from the first of all your produce (3:9).

This verse is a reference to the OT concept of tithing. In Malachi 3:10, the Lord adds, “Test Me now in this,” says the LORD of hosts, “if I will not open for you the windows of heaven and pour out for you a blessing until it overflows.” We are to honor God by giving in a way that is proportional to what He gives us. Think of the concept of wealth as more than just material; it includes giving to the Lord from not only your treasure but also your time and talents. Do you give a portion of your time, talent, and treasure to the Lord? The degree to which you do so is the degree to which God pours out His blessings on you; it is one way we honor Him.

B. THROUGH TAKING CARE OF THE POOR

He who oppresses the poor taunts his Maker, but he who is gracious to the needy honors Him (14:31).

Giving to the poor is another biblically explicit way that we honor God. It is important to note that this responsibility is ascribed to both the church and to individuals. (A similar mandate for taking care of the poor as the primary responsibility of the institution of government cannot be found in Scripture.)

C. THROUGH VERBALLY PRAISING HIM

King Nebuchadnezzar learned the hard way that he needed to honor God. Note that he did this via verbal praise:

“But at the end of that period, I, Nebuchadnezzar, raised my eyes toward heaven and my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High and praised and honored Him who lives forever” (Daniel 4:34).

God is honored by the use of our time, talent, and treasure in support of His purposes to take the Gospel throughout the world, by taking care of the less fortunate, and by speaking His glory from our lips. We ascribe dignity to Him in these three specific ways; this is how we honor God per scriptural revelation.

II. THE SIN OF HONORING SELF

Better is he who is lightly esteemed and has a servant than he who honors himself and lacks bread (12:9).

This proverb contrasts outward appearances with inward stability; the two are not necessarily connected. It is better to be industrious and of low profile than a blowhard. There are those who are industrious and work on their character, and there are those who want to be perceived as significant and work on their reputation. It follows then,

Let another praise you, and not your own mouth; a stranger, and not your own lips (27:2).

Working hard and quietly is always best. Let your record speak for itself over time versus falling into the trap of constant self-promotion with little to promote.

If you are industrious and God-honoring, others will take note in due time. Don’t honor yourself.

First Thessalonians 4:4 helps to clarify our perspective of self and honor. The passage is written to believers:

able to compete for public funding or federal or state programs under the guise that doing so would violate the Establishment Clause.

“But the Supreme Court has rightfully held that Americans should be allowed to participate in their government and not be required to surrender their faith.”

Each of you know how to possess his own vessel in sanctification and honor.

The Greek word in this verse for honor (doxazo) as it relates to self takes on a right kind of connotation (in terms of “value and respect” for self) given its contextual usage. Honor here is used in terms of our personal sanctification or being set apart from the world and its ways. The idea is that we should always hold ourselves in utmost dignity that befits a true ambassador of the King of kings. The believer’s strong sense of self-worth does not stem from arrogance, but from our position in Christ Who has bought us at a huge price! The believer possesses an imputed dignity and honor that comes from Christ Himself (cf. Galatians 2:20)! As a vessel for Christ, the believer celebrates Christ’s honor in and through the believer’s life.

III. RECEIVING HONOR FROM THE LORD

The second major aspect of this study has to do with God’s honoring the believer. What are some biblical insights that relate to God’s honoring His called-out ones that we can glean from Scripture and enact in our lives?

A. THROUGH OBEDIENCE

In the following proverbs, Solomon personifies Wisdom, stylistically assigning a feminine gender to the idea of obedience to God’s Word.

Long life is in her right hand; in her left hand are riches and honor (3:16).

“Prize her, and she will exalt you; she will honor you if you embrace her. She will place on your head a garland of grace; she will present you with a crown of beauty” (4:8–9).

“Riches and honor are with me, enduring wealth and righteousness” (8:18).

The summary point of these proverbs is that God will honor you if you honor His Word! God blesses—He honors—obedience!

B. THROUGH HUMILITY

Hebrews 12 reveals the method God uses to mature His children. Through His discipline and its subsequent humility—God’s economy for maturity—a saint is moved toward greater usability. The following proverbs summarize in sound-bite fashion all that verses 5–13 in Hebrews 12 teach about being humbled by the Lord. Note the redundancy of this principle:

The fear of the LORD is the instruction for wisdom, and before honor comes humility (15:33).

Before destruction the heart of man is haughty, but humility goes before honor (18:12).

The reward of humility and the fear of the LORD are riches, honor and life (22:4).

A man’s pride will bring him low, but a humble spirit will obtain honor (29:23).

The repetition of this principle is meant to help instill in the believer this fact: it is normative for God to profoundly humble those whom He plans to honor greatly. Know this about God, and expect the same course in your life.

IV. RECEIVING HONOR FROM OTHERS

Do your peers honor you? Do they ascribe weight to you; are you respected in the minds and actions of others? There are proverbs that address this important aspect of honor. Consider the following six insights in terms of gaining dignity in the eyes of your colleagues. Here's how you gain respect.

A. THROUGH GRACIOUSNESS

A gracious woman attains honor, and ruthless men attain riches (11:16).

First Peter 2:17 states that believers should give honor to all people, believers or not: Honor all people, love the brotherhood, fear God, honor the king.

The fact that all are created in the image of God should provide a comprehensive attitude of honor and respect toward others.

Even though we believers are called to confront sin and counsel repentance, we all need to remember that such is motivated out of a heart of compassion for the unregenerate who are passively or aggressively hostile toward the risen Christ. Be gracious; give people what they do not deserve! As a result, you will garner esteem.

B. BY AVOIDING ARGUMENTS

Keeping away from strife is an honor for a man, but any fool will quarrel (20:3).

Don't be someone who takes issue with everything as if you are the self-appointed sheriff.

C. THROUGH LOYALTY

He who pursues righteousness and loyalty finds life, righteousness and honor (21:21).

The Hebrew word for loyalty is kesed, which carries the idea of goodness and kindness. If you are good and kind to your friends, if you have their back, you will gain much favor in their eyes.

He who tends the fig tree will eat its fruit, and he who cares for his master will be honored (27:18).

The Hebrew word for care is shamar, meaning “keep,” “watch,” or “preserve.” Do you have that attitude toward your boss? Do you have his back? Again, such attitudes and actions lead to your honor; betrayal, on the other hand, leads not to receiving honor.

D. THROUGH BEING SELF-EFFACING

A man's pride will bring him low, but a humble spirit will obtain honor (29:23).

From the heart, become a master at understating self-importance, and you will obtain honor. Be the brunt of your own humor.

E. THROUGH HUMILITY

Do not claim honor in the presence of the king, and do not stand in the place of great men (25:6).

Here is a wise saying: “Always deflect praise afforded you onto those who supported you.” Remember,

The crucible is for silver and the furnace for gold, and each is tested by the praise accorded him (27:21).

MINISTRY UPDATE

From a Simple Act of Honor to National Influence in Chile

Several years ago, the church Catedral de la Alabanza (Cathedral of Praise) in Santiago, Chile, hosted a unique gathering—not a traditional holiday celebration, but a “Thank You” service designed to honor local government officials for their service to the community.

The event was organized by Senior Pastor José Ferrara, together with another of the church's ministers, Christian Jara, who serves as a youth pastor. Both men share a deep burden for reaching those in positions of authority. Christian has served as Capitol Ministries' Ministry Leader since August 2024 and received his training in Bogotá, Colombia, later that same year.

Following the service, local public servants were honored with a meal, and each official was presented with a plaque recognizing their public service. Their response was striking. Such recognition from an evangelical church was entirely unexpected. Yet through this simple and thoughtful act, meaningful relationships were formed.

One year later, in December 2024, several of those same individuals were elected to national office as Members of Congress in Chile.

When discussions began regarding leadership for a newly established governmental office overseeing religious affairs, these officials were asked to provide recommendations. They immediately recalled the respect and sincerity shown to them and put forward one name: Christian Jara.

In March Pastor Christian met with President-elect José Antonio Kast to formally accept an invitation to serve as Director of the National Office for Religious Affairs in Chile. In this role, he will engage with leaders across the executive branch and help oversee religious affairs throughout the country, including involvement in the appointment of chaplains across Chile's regions.

From a ministry perspective, the implications are significant. For Capitol Ministries, this Since flattery in office is such a huge temptation, develop a style of self-effacement if you haven't already.

Here then above are five ways you can gain honor in the eyes of others. Work on them in and through the power of Christ. There is one additional way to gain honor.

V. GIVING HONOR TO OTHERS

There are four groups in the Bible to whom the believer should be dutiful.

A. OLDER PEOPLE

The glory of young men is their strength, and the honor of old men is their gray hair (20:29).

Whereas the former methods represent honor earned through merit and personal character, those under this category represent a right of honor. The inference of this proverb is that an older person is to be honored. Period. In a way similar to the way Deuteronomy 5:16 and Ephesians 6:2 speak about honoring our parents, this category of honor contains no caveat or litmus test relative to its bestowal. It doesn't matter whether or not an older person has earned honoring.

The word honor translated in this verse is different. It is hadar, meaning "an ornament," which differs from the meaning of kador. Our capital culture should be totally informed by the ancient Hebrew culture on this point: such makes for a more noble environment. (These insights should also inform our views regarding euthanasia).

In a biblically informed culture then, one way of receiving honor is to simply grow old; gray-haired citizens should automatically gain honor.

B. TO THE LESS FORTUNATE

First Corinthians 12:23 contains profound, sobering truths about members of the body who hold more humble positions in society and who could be deemed less honorable. Upon these we are to bestow abundant honor and thereby our less presentable members become much more presentable. The NT Greek word for honor in this passage is timao and means similarly "to ascribe worth, respect." We are to honor the less fortunate not only as a means of blessing them, but for the purposes of manifesting unity in the body of Christ. This display is unequaled in the fallen world around us. Romans 12:10 echoes the same truth when it states, give preference to one another in honor. Beloved, do not be partial toward the powerful who give to your campaign. Honor the less fortunate, and God will honor you.

C. TO WIDOWS

First Timothy 5:3 states, Honor widows who are widows indeed. Do you have a widow on your staff or in your community to whom you are ascribing favor? Do you ascribe them worth and respect? The elderly, the less fortunate, widows, and children without parents are those to whom God expects us to give over-abundant favor.

VI. GIVING HONOR TO A FOOL

Fools are those who tender thoughtless, insensitive remarks. They can be identified by their inability to reason cogently.

Proverbs identifies these manifest characteristics of a fool as evidenced by and when (interestingly!) they debate another person:

When a wise man has a controversy with a foolish man, the foolish man either rages or laughs, and there is no rest (29:9).

Scripture serves to inform the wise public servant that fools will resort to rage and laughter to win their point. Be prepared for this:

The wise will inherit honor, but fools display dishonor (3:35).

If a believer is called to a campus ministry (be it a university or capital) where in rigorous debate is expected, it follows that you have a special assignment requiring special abilities. One of our joint prayers in elected leaders Bible Studies needs to be that God will raise up thousands of public servants (like many of you) who will be strong in Christ and able, both cogently and forcefully, to defeat overwhelmingly the foolish speculations of those who ignore the precepts of His Word and new life in Christ. Let us give no honor whatsoever to the verbiage of foolish thinking.

Elected officials who prate foolish ideologies should be regularly and roundly defeated by those trained in the use of biblical principles.

How then should the believer relate to a fool? Clearly, fools represent a category of people whom God says you should exclude from honor:

Like snow in summer and like rain in harvest, so honor is not fitting for a fool (26:1).

Like one who binds a stone in a sling, so is he who gives honor to a fool (26:8).

It is best not to answer fools; a good retort is used by wise leaders: “That comment is not worthy of an answer.”

Do not answer a fool according to his folly (26:4).

VII. GIVING HONOR TO INSTITUTIONAL LEADERS

All are to honor the leaders in the five institutions ordained by God during the Church Age. The Greek word for honor in each of the following passages is doxazo, which means “to render esteem.” Notice the recurrence of the word regarding each ordained-by-God institution:

A. GOVERNMENTAL

Render to all what is due them: tax to whom tax is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor (Romans 13:7).

Honor all people, love the brotherhood, fear God, honor the king (1 Peter 2:17).

B. FAMILIAL

Honor your father and mother (which is the first commandment with a promise) (Ephesians 6:2).

C. ECCLESIASTICAL

The elders who rule well are to be considered worthy of double honor, especially those who work hard at preaching and teaching (1 Timothy 5:17).

anticipated appointment opens unprecedented doors for future ministry development at both the national and local levels.

José Antonio Kast
President of Chile

As Oscar Zamora, CapMin’s Latin America Director, reflected: “What excites me most is seeing how a simple act of honoring local authorities—without any agenda—led to a national platform for the Gospel. God used those relationships years later in ways we could not have planned. With Pastor Christian serving at the highest level of religious affairs in Chile, we see a unique opportunity to open doors for Bible study ministry across the entire country.”

In a nation shaped by a strong Christian heritage yet navigating shifting political dynamics, this development represents a strategic and timely opportunity. What began as a local expression of gratitude has become a doorway to national influence—demonstrating once again how God works through faithful, intentional relationships over time.

What Does It Mean to be Honorable?

D. COMMERCIAL

All who are under the yoke as slaves are to regard their own masters as worthy of all honor so that the name of God and our doctrine will not be spoken against (1 Timothy 6:1).

Now he who plants and he who waters are one; but each will receive his own reward according to his own labor (1 Corinthians 3:8).

E. MARITAL

Marriage is to be held in honor among all, and the marriage bed is to be undefiled; for fornicators and adulterers God will judge (Hebrews 13:4).

You husbands in the same way, live with your wives in an understanding way ... and show her honor as a fellow heir of the grace of life, so that your prayers will not be hindered (1 Peter 3:7).

God's leaders in every institution are to be esteemed, if for no other reason than the position they hold.

VIII. SUMMARY

This study has attempted to build a theology regarding honor. Honor is an integral part of the believer's life. We are to give weight to certain others as revealed by this study. Conversely, we are not to honor fools or foolish things; we are never to honor things that are dishonoring to Christ. Honoring the right things is not only an element of living life with skill for God's glory (i.e., wisdom) but a means of placing ourselves in a position to be blessed. When we practice honoring others in humility, God will honor us as a result.
